

Jacquelyn Gasparek

Global Initiatives and Fellowships Coordinator

Jacque has been with the Legatum Center since April 2023 after her AmeriCorps service as a College Coach with College Possible and a VISTA with UMass Lowell supporting first-generation students like herself at both public and private universities. This focus in work that specifically benefits first-generation, Pell-eligible students stems from a lack of support and resources available to her during her time in college, and a keen interest in seeing an equitable higher education culture for the next generation. Jacque is excited to take the skills acquired in these positions to benefit the Legatum Center's mission of empowering the growth of emerging markets.

Prior to landing at MIT, Jacque received a Bachelor of Arts in Pre-Law Political Science from the University of Wisconsin in 2022. Shortly after graduation, Jacque relocated to Boston to pursue work in higher education. Outside the office she spends her time reading, writing, hiking, and camping.
